Hostilities To Be Resumed.

Both Armies Ready For Fray And Fighting Likely Begun.

Japanese Receive Reinforcements Estimated at From 40,000 to 60,000 Troops - Will Meet Kurokitin On Equal Footing—Field Marshal Oyama's Confidence In Sufficiency of His Force Indicated By Events—At Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 1.—Everything indicates that both the Japanese and Russian armies south of Mukden are ready for a resumption of hostilities. If indeed fighting has not already begun. General Kuro-kitin reports that the Japanese have received reinforcements from the south and Pongwangchong. Their conjunction seems to have been accomplished, and they are ready to resume the offensive both east and west of the railroad. There is no official estimate of the strength of the Japanese reinforcements, but correspondents place it at from 40,000 to 60,000. It is believed that the Japanese have been largely assisted from both Port Arthur where an engineering siege has been begun and Japan, where it is understood every available man is being drafted.

Meet The East Foe.
It seems to be agreed that the Japanese will be able to meet the Russian Kurokitin on an almost, if not equal, an equal numerical footing.
The mere fact that they are again threatening a double flanking movement indicates Field Marshal Oyama's confidence in the sufficiency of the force at his disposal. It is believed here that the second battle of the Shinkai River will prove to be as much bigger and more serious than the first, as the first was more serious than the battle of Liao-shing. General Kurokitin is confronted by an exceedingly difficult problem. He is pitted against a Japanese force stronger, even despite its recent losses, than that of first opposing his southern advance. If Kurokitin now succeeds in checking even, or in breaking the Japanese formation, it will open large possibilities for the rest of the remainder of the present year's campaign. On the other hand, a Russian reverse, now would render the position exceedingly critical.

Fighting on Russian Front.
Despite indications the resumption of fighting on both sides of the Russian front. The night of October 30 the Japanese attacked the Russian army entrenched east of Shinkai, but were repulsed, though the temporary continued throughout the night. A Japanese advance has also been reported against the Russian position at Tungshan, a mile and a half south of Shinkai, where they encountered a heavy Russian force.
Thus it seems that the Japanese are becoming aggressive along the whole front from Hsienkai on the extreme east to Shinkai, which is west of the Shinkai River, where that stream bends south after crossing the railroad. This probably constitutes the extreme Russian west, and the Russian front about the same as when General Kurokitin began his southern movement.

Great Fight at Hand.
Mukden, Nov. 1.—The manifestations of the Japanese in their center, which now converge at a point where the plain meets the hills, have indicated the greatest importance.
These manifestations are being fully appreciated by the Russians, so that the situation at this point of the group appears to be one of the most greatest interest and importance.
At the present moment the Japanese on both sides are attacking with troops and at many points the Russians and Russians are within hailing distance.

Sunday night there was the heaviest bombardment of the week from the Russian batteries, and the Russians are seemingly apprehensive of the possibility of this bombardment being accompanied by a continuous fire, while the industry advanced by means of quick striking at intervals of a few hundred feet under cover of darkness.

Outcome of this activity is a time valuable along the entire front. The Russian position in connection with the reported reinforcements of Japanese to one and small divisions from Port Arthur, and the Russian position in battle within a few days.

These reinforcements however they rapidly indicate each other and are able to distinguish each other entirely along the line, drop their loads when they have been moved on. These movements are made from points of view, while the industry artillery, which is concentrated in its practice, the primary position on October 30, which was repulsed, and in front of which the Russian position was found to be stronger than that of the Japanese, despite the fact that the Japanese were superior in numbers, and that they were better equipped.

The Russian force is believed to be as much as 20,000 men, and the Japanese force is believed to be as much as 40,000 men.

The Latest Situation.
Mukden, Nov. 1.—The situation along the front from the banks of the Shinkai River came under fire on Sunday night, and the Russian position was repulsed, and the Russians and Japanese are within hailing distance.

Non-combatants with the attack

repulsed, and in front of which the Russian position was found to be
stronger than that of the Japanese,

HOW CITY FATHERS

SPENT HALLOWEEN.

Mr. Wm. Lott's Letter, re Mac Machine Co.'s Taxes, May 11 re Far-Reducing Effect—The Rolling Mills Taxes—Council Did Not Entertain Proposition of Bank of Commerce—Upper Bridge to be Replanned—Minor Matters.

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last night, and in spite of the numerous Halloween attractions there was at the school, only one vacant chair, namely, that of Mr. McGrath, who came in after wards.

Communications.
From Mr. A. S. Searcy, calling the Council's attention to a drain on Victoria Ave., which needed draining out and demolishing the same.

From a number of residents of Harrison St., asking for an ordinance right on that thoroughfare to be laid out.

From Mr. F. S. Wallbridge, re taxes on Mrs. Campbell Wallbridge's taxes on William St., Bellevue, asking for a remission of the same.

The following accounts were read and passed:

From the First estate, for services in connection with funeral of late Mrs. Rogers, drawn from the estate of Mrs. Rogers, $100.00
From Mr. F. Clark, $10.00
From Mr. J. L. Leavens, $10.00
From Mr. J. L. Leavens, $10.00

The Street Surveyor reported that the cost of repaving the upper to the middle St. Hill, he estimated that the different districts and water meters in the city be situated at a probable cost of $100,000.

Reports of Commissioners.
The reports of the various standing committees were already published. Council went into committee of the whole, and after a short session, adjourned.

There was the same old old story of the Council's action on the matter of the city's water supply. The Council's action was to let the city's water supply be taken care of by the city's water supply.

It is to be noted that the city's water supply is to be taken care of by the city's water supply. The Council's action was to let the city's water supply be taken care of by the city's water supply.

Children's Coats

We are making special efforts this season in the interests of the little tots.
Those who have already seen the styles and generous variety of new things in Coats pronounce Sinclair's gathering without serious rivalry. We've planned just as carefully for the Miss from 5 to 14 years as we have for her grown-up sister or mother.
Prices range according to age, materials and styles--within the limits of every purse.
It will be well for thoughtful and particular mothers to take immediate advantage of the now thoroughly complete assortment.

Our Fur Department.

We've a goodly showing of all the newest styles in Furs, both for Ladies and the Little Folks.
Not many people who are not experts can tell the difference between imitations and the real article, the artfully dyed goods, the bad skins, sewed up in small pieces, in fact there's a multitude of fur tricks and the only way to guard against them is to buy from a firm with a reputation, a firm you can depend on.
The Sinclair reputation is valued away about making profits and all the Furs we sell can be fully depended upon both in quality and fairness in price.

GRIT BOGUS BALLOT BOXES SEIZED!

Honest Electors, think of this!

BOGUS BALLOT BOXES, intended to be used on behalf of Lott in this Election, have been discovered and seized in this Riding. Five of them are now in possession of the Authorities in this City, and may be seen by any Elector at the Belleville Police Station.

GOD SAVE THE KING!

and Protect Our Country from such Rascality.

The streets were this morning flooded with the above dodger, and to say that there were a lot of wildly excited people on our streets is putting it mildly. Some of our esteemed Grit fellow-citizens were actually foaming at the mouth.

"A put-up job!" they shouted fervently.

Gently, gentlemen, gently does it. Let us reason together over this matter. Don't get excited. Suppose we look at the facts for a moment.

It came to the knowledge of the leaders of the Conservative party in the province, some three weeks ago, that a desperate effort was to be made by the "boss" "machines" to steal the province for Lott, by means of bogus ballot-boxes, made in the United States and smuggled into Canada. We use the word "smuggled" advisedly, because the Hon. Mr. Fielding, minister of finance, had, through a strange oversight, requested to place bogus ballot boxes on the free list.

FOUR HUNDRED OF THESE BOGUS BALLOT BOXES WERE BROUGHT INTO ONTARIO.

Four hundred, gentlemen!

Four hundred!

400!

Think of that, honest electors. Four hundred bogus ballot boxes smuggled into Ontario to steal your votes and rob you of your franchise.

THIRTEEN of these bogus ballot-boxes were brought into the West Riding of Hastings, and this morning, at 2 o'clock, FIVE of them were captured by a detective and placed in the possession of the authorities at Belleville.

They are now at the police station, and were to-day examined by hundreds of people.

Perhaps a description of the modus operandi will be of interest to our readers.

The box, of course, is of zinc, resembling in appearance the ordinary ballot-box used at Dominion elections.

It has a hinged side, which is worked by means of the wire handle on the top of the box. As you know, the handle, when raised and turned by the voter, is placed in the box through a round hole on one end of the top.

The handle of the box is fastened to the inner side of the box, so that when the handle is turned to the left the ballots inserted go to the proper place in the bottom of the box.

When the handle is turned to the left the ballots inserted go into the false receptacle. The modus operandi, had the trick worked, was to have double ballots inserted by some of the "faithfuls," so that when the ballots were counted at night the right number would be found. Then, when the deputy returning officer took the box home, preparatory to sending it to the Returning Officer at headquarters, he would put the ballots into the genuine box supplied by the authorities, and so on, except those in the secret, would be any the wiser.

That was the scheme.

But it failed.

Now, as to the statements made by some of our esteemed Grit fellow-citizens that this matter is a "put-up job."

Here are a few facts:

Between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock last night a well-dressed stranger went to a very stable in this city and loaded a team of horses and rig. He said that he had some business to do in the country, and wanted to know the way to Clinton, Fergus and Marmora. The proprietor offered to send a driver with him, but he did not desire to have any person with him. The object of his visit in these places, of course, could not be ascertained.

A detective has been working on this case for some time. The "well-dressed stranger" mentioned above was followed, with the result that the goods are now in the Belleville police station.

It is claimed by Mr. Porter, Conservative candidate for West Hastings, that these boxes were meant to be used to secure the election of Lott and to defeat him (Mr. Porter).

It is claimed by Mr. Porter that he has documentary evidence in his possession implicating prominent Grits in the transaction, and some other men high in the Councils of the Ontario Government.

We firmly believe that the boxes in question were intended to be used to steal the election from Mr. Porter and Mr. Northrup.

But we do not believe that Mr. John Williams, of this city, Returning Officer for West Hastings, had any hand in this dirty work. Mr. Williams, though a strong party man, is a gentleman.

And now, if the statements made above are not true, will our Grit friends prosecute us for criminal libel? It appears to us that if we are not telling the truth, there should be an elegant opportunity to get somebody connected with the establishment behind the bars.

Come on, B. O. Lott. Here we are at the same old address. Good!

Toronto, Nov. 4.—While the Tories have been preparing for the constitutional crisis to the detriment of their cause, the Liberals have been working for the past few days to secure a majority in the House of Commons. GRIT BOGUS BALLOT BOXES SEIZED!

Honest Electors, think of this!

BOGUS BALLOT BOXES, intended to be used on behalf of Lott in this Election, have been discovered and seized in this Riding. Five of them are now in possession of the Authorities in this City, and may be seen by any Elector at the Belleville Police Station.

GOD SAVE THE KING!

and Protect Our Country from such Rascality.

The streets were this morning flooded with the above dagger, and to say that there were a lot of wildly excited people on our streets is putting it mildly. Some of our esteemed Grit fellow-citizens were actually foaming at the mouth.

"A gut-up job!" they shouted fiercely.

Gently, gentlemen, gently does it. Let us reason together over this matter. Don't get heated. Suppose we look at the facts for a moment.

It came to the knowledge of the leaders of the Conservative party in this province, some three weeks ago, that a desperate effort was to be made by the "machine" to steal the province for Lott by means of bogus ballot-boxes, made in the United States and smuggled into Canada. We use the word "smuggled" advisedly, because the Hon. Mr. Fielding, minister of finance, had, through a strange oversight, neglected to place bogus ballot boxes on the free list.

FOUR HUNDRED OF THESE BOGUS BALLOT BOXES WERE BROUGHT INTO ONTARIO.

Four hundred, gentlemen!
Four hundred!

400!
Think of that, honest electors. Four hundred bogus ballot boxes smuggled into Ontario to steal your votes and rob you of your franchise.

THIRTEEN of these bogus ballot-boxes were brought into the West Riding of Hastings, and this morning, at 1 o'clock, FIVE of them were captured by a detective and placed in the possession of the authorities of Belleville.

They are now at the police station, and were to-day examined by hundreds of people.

Perhaps a description of the modus operandi will be of interest to our readers.

Two boxes, of course, is of size, resembling in appearance the ordinary ballot-box used at Dominion elections. It has a hinged side, which is worked by means of a wire handle on the top of the box. As voters know, the handle, when raised and joined by the voter, is placed in the box through a round hole on one end of the top.

The handle of the box is fastened to the inner side of the top, so that when the handle lays flat to the right any ballot inserted goes to its proper place in the bottom of the box.

When the handle is turned to the left the ballot is forced up into the false receptacle. The modus operandi, had the trick worked, was to have double ballots inserted by some of the "faithful," so that when the ballots were counted at night the right number would be found. Then, when the deputy returning officer took the box home, preparatory to sending it to the Returning Officer at headquarters, he would put the ballots into the genuine box, supplied by the authorities, and so one, except those in the secret, would be any the wiser.

That was the scheme.

But it failed.
Now, as to the statements made by some of our esteemed Grit fellow-citizens that this matter is a "gut-up job."

Here are a few facts:
Between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock last night a well-dressed stranger went to a very stable in this city and wanted a team of horses and rig. He said that he had some business to do in the country, and wanted to know the way to Caw-Mon, Parboro and Matmore. The proprietor offered to send a driver with him, but he did not desire to have any person with him. The object of his visit to these places, of course, could not be ascertained.

A detective has been working on this case for some time. The "well-dressed stranger" mentioned above was followed, with the result that the goods are now in the Belleville police station.

It is claimed by Mr. Foster, Conservative candidate for West Hastings, that these boxes were meant to be used to secure the election of Lott and to defeat him (Mr. Foster). It is claimed by Mr. Foster that he has documentary evidence in his possession implicating prominent Grits in the transaction, and also other men high in the Councils of the Ontario Government.

We firmly believe that the boxes in question were intended to be used to steal the election from Mr. Foster and Mr. Northrup.

But we do not believe that Mr. John Williams, of this city, Returning Officer for West Hastings, had any hand in this dirty work. Mr. Williams, though a strong party man, is a gentleman.

And now, if the statements made above are not true, will our Grit friends present us any criminal libel. It strikes us that if we are not telling the truth, there should be an elegant opportunity to get somebody connected with the establishment behind the bars.

Come on, B. O. Lott. Here we are at the same old address, Grand Family Journal, Front St.

The Bogus Ballot Boxes, Now in the Belleville Police Station, Were Captured in the Possession of P. H. Lott, Brother of B. O. Lott, Liberal Candidate For West Hastings.

CHANGES IN MILITIA

FORCE OF CANADA

EFFECT OF NEW MILITIA ACT ON

RURAL AND CITY COMPANIES

The active militia, comprising the rural corps, will be keenly interested in one change made in the Militia Act, the reorganization of the militia, the typical company of rural infantry is made up from three sources. First, there is a list of the rank and file of the day for the twelve days' camp, or, if necessary, pay for commutation of a day's instruction, which hitherto has been a lump sum of $40, and, thirdly, an allowance of $40 for normal service. By the new regulations the militia will no longer be divided into rural and city companies. Officers who take a full company of 250 men, and men who get slightly more than before. Captains who fail to recruit to the strength will suffer. Some companies, such as in which a captain vacated, may be reduced to 100 men. The militia is now $40 for commutation, but the militia company leader, the old rates of pay, the militia which captain could draw from these three sources was $118.10. Under the new regulations, the militia company leader will be as low as about $10. The militia is now $118.10, and the militia company leader will be as low as about $10. The militia is now $118.10, and the militia company leader will be as low as about $10.

Another of Lord Dufferin's plans for the training of officers and men. It will be remembered that the former General Officer Commanding in Chief, Lord Dufferin, was of the opinion that two weeks in the standard hotel for the training of officers and men, rather than in a comparison of the militia, was a better method of instruction. Orders in this effect were issued, and the militia was to be sent to the militia camp, and the militia was to be sent to the militia camp, and the militia was to be sent to the militia camp.

To me and to those ancestors suffered and fought and died to uphold over the greater part of the North American continent the glory of the British flag it sounds rather peculiarly to hear a person intimate that its destinies for all its subjects

TIMELY TOPICS.

Don't let all this talk about winter mean any less to you than it does to some of our men for your country. We've got a good many more of the latest new look out for the winter.

A first-class man must certainly be found for the chair of the University of Western Canada, so well filled by the Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald. To correct a misapprehension it may be as well to state that the candidate, whose name will be, need not be a prohibitionist.

Some of the men who are a little over the limit of the present election, insist that the government is the Conservative in the Council next year. We are inclined to disagree with the latter. The Conservative has too much power in their hands to be so sure that they will be able to do so.

The difference between an old man and a married woman, says a friend, is that the old man is never alone, while the married woman is never alone.

The fact that the days were to come, which they expected, was to go on in peace.

Don't me! Come to think of it, the world is a very small place, and the world is a very small place.

While a woman is in a dress, she is a woman, and she is a woman.

STORIES FOR THE LADIES
MINUS OF THE WORLD LOVE.
How easily we say the word love: how little we realize what love demands of us. Oh! how we keep always in mind the highest good and the individual rights of the creature—human or animal—we claim to love, then we have no understanding of the word.

There are scores, yes, thousands of men who believe they love women, and believe so.

The truth is they love town them. That they do not love them enough to consider their rights, their needs and their happiness—their best good. Love, human love, is a thing of the heart, fervent, unselfish and unselfish. It is a thing of the heart, fervent, unselfish and unselfish. It is a thing of the heart, fervent, unselfish and unselfish.

Wherever there is a race and love, there is a struggle. Love is a thing of the heart, fervent, unselfish and unselfish. It is a thing of the heart, fervent, unselfish and unselfish.

The Girl of the Orchard

Howard Fiedling

Copyright, 1904, by Charles W. Beale never saw elsewhere in that part of the country. It seemed to be a great pile of rocks with straight and distorted trees growing at strange angles from the crevices between them. Beyond it was the lake, from which the orchard rose toward the house, an orderly array of fine old trees, wide spreading, gnarled and sturdy.

"Miss Lamolin" replied the young man.

In the midst of it I could with difficulty discern the lodge, picturesque and lavishing, built round a giant apple tree and shaded by the luxuriant broad expanse of its branches. There seemed to be a wide veranda on the side toward the lake, a place where a man might sit and smoke and forget any girl that ever existed.

"That's where I live," said I to the house, curiously and confidentially, "under that tree. My meals are brought out to me by a couple of maids and any boarder who calls upon me gets shot."

The farmhouse itself might have attracted me in ordinary conditions. It was a series of low houses that had grown with the demand. They were connected, but each seemed to have its separate entrance, with a spacious porch, vine clad and cool. But the best of it was that not a human creature was in sight. The house had many windows flung open to the sweet June air and beyond a double was well treated, yet no one was visible. I traced the people to be wandering in the grove beyond the house or in the trees that bordered the lake, each man or woman solitary, absorbed in great reflection.

I drove up to that entrance which seemed to appertain to the managerial part of the establishment—for the kitchen was back of that section of the house, and it looked to be the oldest—a very quiet but came out and revealed to me without interest or curiosity, I set him down as a modest child.

"My friend," said I, "will you tell Mrs. Whittemore that I would like to see her?"

He turned without a word and went into the house. Presently a young woman came out to say that Mrs. Whittemore was in the garden, and she made a gesture which indicated that that was far away. She spoke with a loud voice appropriate to the place, and I was glad to have her for it.

"If it's anything about living here," said she after a restless pause, "I can give you information. I'm Mrs. Whittemore's niece."

I dismounted from the carriage and took a seat in the porch. Immediately the quiet boy appeared from somewhere in particular and led my horse under the shade of an apple tree that stood beside the fence which marked off the orchard from the field. I observed that the path leading down to the lake was beyond the fence. The orchard showed no sign that any one passed through. There was a faint path leading to the lodge, but it seemed not to go beyond.

"That's a very nice boy," said I. "Who is he?"

"Jim Lamolin," replied the young woman. "I half rose from my seat."

"Lamolin?" I echoed.

"Yes," said she. "He's an orphan. He and his sister are almost all that's left of the family."

"His sister?"

"Anna," said my companion. "It was calm, unobtrusive beauty which suited so well with the rural calm of the scene."

"It isn't possible," I said, "that he is Anna Lamolin's brother?"

"Why not?" asked the girl gently.

"I beg your pardon," said I. "It happens that I have met Miss Lamolin. James doesn't resemble her."

"I always thought they looked very much alike," she replied.

"No more than I look like that apple tree," I remarked. "I met Jim Lamolin in New York recently."

The power of O. R. KIDNEY CURE simply marvellous, in cases of KIDNEY, BLADDER and CRYSTALLINE stones. It goes right to the spot HEALS and CURES every kind of stone, and urinary.

Each bottle of O. R. KIDNEY CURE contains a ten days' treatment price just as all drug stores and dealers.

"Visiting the Clubhouse?" murmured Miss Whittemore.

"Yes," said I. "She was there. They're friends of mine. By the way, where is Miss Lamolin now?"

"I don't know," was the reply. "Of course her brother knows."

"I don't think so. You can ask him."

How slow she spoke as if there were some mystery in Anna Lamolin's whereabouts, and her way of saying that I could ask Jim made it wholly unnecessary that I should do so. Either he didn't know or he wouldn't say.

There was a pause, and then I said: "That's a fine little house under the apple tree. I wonder what your next word would be for it."

"It's retired," said the girl. "There's a Miss Jones living there."

"Miss Jones?" I asked. "Where did she come from? What does she look like?"

"I don't know where she came from," was the reply. "She looks well enough for all that I've seen of her."

"You don't mean to tell me that she lives out there all alone?"

"There's an old lady in this side," replied Miss Whittemore. "The house is in two parts; used to be only one, but Mr. Whittemore built the half nearest to us last year."

"What a pity!" I exclaimed.

"Oh, it's just as private," she said. "There's a partition of logs and no door. You might find a cousin in age half and not wake a person in the other."

"I don't believe Miss Jones told Miss Scott ever met. I carry their cousin out sometime."

She sat back in her seat and demurely folded her hands, which were incased in man's gloves, much soiled. I judged that she had been performing some task appertaining to the kitchen range.

"I want the whole of that little house," said I.

"Don't know how you're going to get it," she replied. "But you can speak to Mrs. Whittemore. Here she comes."

A large, motherly looking woman, with a pleasant face and a great shawl of gray hair neatly arranged, came around the corner of the house. She was carrying a large pan of peas.

As I rose to speak to Mrs. Whittemore the niece slipped away into the house. I desired across me that she might have been too long away from her work and that the landlady's disposition might not be so mild as her countenance would indicate.

I lost no time in stating my business to her. She shook her head slowly and stirred the peas in the pan with a wooden spoon.

There seems to be a great demand for our apple tree house this year," said she. "Miss Scott takes to it, though you'd think an old maid would be scared out there in the orchard at night. But it appears that she's afraid of dogs and don't like to live up stairs."

Toronto, Nov. 23.—Frank White, one of the proprietors of the White House, while returning two ladies home Monday night, was shot by a man occupied by some Italian. Four of them were blocking the sidewalk and, in order to pass, White gave one of the men a slight shove. He was followed for some distance and assaulted. He received a bad knife wound in the front of the left thigh, close to the femoral artery. While fleeing two of his assailants, but the one who used the knife cannot be located by the police. White is in St. John's hospital, in a serious condition.

Home Wrecked Lawyer's Home.

Orlando, Fla., Nov. 23.—The home of Elmer E. Thomas, a prominent lawyer of this city, and attorney for the first federation, was wrecked by a bomb placed on the front porch early yesterday. Mr. Thomas and his family were in the house at the time and he considers it miraculous that none of them was hurt. Mr. Thomas has been active for some time in the promotion of reformers' church with violation of the Sherman law, and he provides for midnight and Sunday closing of saloons.

Port Arthur is Falling.

Jap Miners Destroy Walls and Force Russian Retirement.

Russian Forces are Now on Southern Side Encampment on Hills

Running Out to the Bay—All the Northern Defences Shattered—Every Commanding Hill in Possession of the Japanese—End is Now Imminent.

Tokio, Nov. 23.—The fall of Port Arthur may now be regarded as imminent. The Russian forces practically are all on the southern side of the city, engaged on the hills running out to the bay. The Sunday morning the Japanese miners were able to destroy the redoubts on the southern side of Quail Hill and southeast of Hishang Mountain.

This was the retirement of the Russian defenders to the hills back of the city, and after a series of retreats between the city and the sea, the Russian forces were driven back from the hills and from Golden Hill the Russian artillery can dominate the city of Port Arthur and prevent its occupation, but the northern defences of the town are now shattered and every commanding hill is in possession of the Japanese troops.

The Imperial Army Board announces that on Sunday night from the naval base on Quail Hill the Russian warships. The vessels were forced out to Hishang fort, on the eastern side of T'ung T'ung, but shells at a high angle can be dropped even now among the fleet.

CASE, PROVED BY COURT

was "along away," the witness said. The wagon was packed in dry goods boxes by Mr. Reed and sent to Ogdensburg. The witness had seen another party there from Ogdensburg with Mr. Kelly. He was ordered to leave the shop when Kelly and the other party came. Witness described the man who was there with Kelly. He had a mustache and was dressed in a suit. He was not quite as tall as Mr. J. M. Verneil. He said that he could not do anything to help Kelly, but he would tell the truth. He was not a party to the matter, which has been sent to Verneil. He had seen Kelly in Watertown once, once with the other man and once by himself.

Mr. McLaughlin objected again to the statement of the witness. SATURDAY EVENING SESSION. The court room was again well filled when the clock pointed to the hour of 6. The Madisonian reported the scene, and people waited for something to happen. The court was waiting for two witnesses, Messrs. Harbert and Hamilton, and the question arose, would they turn up?

Harbert's name was called, but he was missing.

Mr. J. M. Verneil said Mr. J. Macdonald, who was called, had told Mr. Harbert that he was not at court yesterday. In future, Mr. Du Verneil said, they would have to look back for witnesses.

The Madisonian asked what Kelly, Mr. J. Macdonald showed him and the witness with the end of justice. Mr. Du Verneil said he did not know, but thought it was better when they understood that warrants might come in the future, would be more ready to appear.

COULD HEARD OR WRITE AND

NEVER LOST HIM

George Hamilton was called and he was the witness. He had been instructed to go to the dock, but he was not there. He was in the court room, but he was not there. He was in the court room, but he was not there. He was in the court room, but he was not there.

Mr. J. M. Verneil said that he was not at court yesterday. In future, Mr. Du Verneil said, they would have to look back for witnesses.

Verneil, surely you don't expect us to believe that. We are long suffering, and have been asked to believe some pretty hard things, but this is the limit."

Continuing, Hamilton said there was no hurry to give it to Kelly. He accepted, which his sister would later have said to Mr. Kelly. Kelly was on the train with him, and rode to Ogdensburg before he left. Kelly was not present. Witness could not suggest the reason why Kelly should want his sister's money.

Mr. Verneil asked asked the witness to tell what he had done with the money. Hamilton said he had given it to Kelly. He did not think he had given it to Kelly. He had given it to Kelly. He had given it to Kelly.

The Girl of the Orchard

Copyright, 1901, by Charles W. Becke

Howard Fielding

As for the cherry, she was utterly invisible. There was something mysterious in this music, which seemed to proceed out of the red dye that, with the familiar hall of humanity, seemed to project, seemed to be the very rhythm of the song. I was so deeply fascinated by all this that I forgot my emotion, and let my ear strike the heart's rail with a sharp sound.

Instantly the music ceased, and I was tortured by a perfect silence. This was an emergency, and I knew it. The singer might be at that moment compelling by some secret plot upon the music. For a moment I was so terrified by the deadly banality of address, as by a sudden, introducing myself, come, I know not what shyness.

Then it occurred to my mind that those three undoubtedly was a way of escape for me to sing. There have been entire in all ages, and undoubtedly at one time or another women have listened to some voice that was very kind and acceptance of the offering for the sake of the spirit in which it has been made. I felt the first thing that came into my head, and it happened to be a lullaby called "The Feeding Song" which I sang in every way, that I used to sing to baby long ago.

It is well known that in moments of extreme stress we do a great deal of music, and this love of nature seemed to defeat me in the present instance. The girl who wrote "The Feeding Song" would never have dared to publish it in the way that I did, for he would have found her that could sing it. I think a special dispensation must have been granted me, for I got through the first stanza like a lightning bolt, but I perished freely with terror. Then I waited, and by my own admission, I should have been a clock in the next afternoon when I heard a blessed sound from the above. It was the guitar, and presently the lady sang, she had chosen "Haven't I Light," a quaint little melody.

My favorite of all, as I remembered, I have strong faith in the power and the will of chance to create a man, but to take this for coincidence was no possibility.

It could be only that I sang to me, and I must have been too susceptible to emotion that was the word of the best that I had, and I had thought of the little girl who had sung in the dark at "Haven't I Light" in the old days.

In the same way there was nothing whatever that remained of the girl. It was not girlish, and of course I could not truly value the difference that the years had made. She was still a child to me, and the voice was womanly. I would have said the singer had been taught not only by her own competent masters, but by her own emotions, well taught by both, and in the school of the heart one gets no more at 15-16 as in the early age to be admitted.

I made no analysis at that time; I merely thought that it was strange. Therein it was the more agreeable. I did not wish to reduce this adventure to the level of the known. It was all I asked to sit there in the red dye of the song, but if I had sung without thinking of the girl, I should have been a clock in the next afternoon when I heard a blessed sound from the above.

While I waited, a little voice seemed to come from the above. The boy of my song was high, and the voice was on her side, as on a pivot, pointing toward the above and making way in that direction. I put myself down my seat, but too late. There was a roof in the Winterson's lake, and I stood, it. The iron shore of the great ground upon a rock with a slightly long and harsh sound. It seemed to me that a great deal of music had gone around and made its way.

I was 25 yards from the shore, but perhaps the girl did not know it. My boat had been quite empty, but I had heard of the girl who had sung in the dark at "Haven't I Light" in the old days. I was surprised to find that I was not alone in the boat.

The power of O. R. KIMBY, CUBA, was a great deal of music. I was 25 yards from the shore, but perhaps the girl did not know it. Whatever else was or believed, the result was the worst possible. The fire

Now, upon her side, as on a pivot, suddenly disappeared, though by that time it was thus extinguished in an instant I could not guess. A thousand voices shot up into the air, and there all was dark. I seemed to see a gray figure moving about the face of the granite wall, but it may have been a creature of my imagination. The incident was of little importance. The question was of little importance.

Never did mother come the last night, and even the father, who was out of the hall and then found down there for the lack of it was I, and the lady in Water With the lady had suffered no disaster, but a summer night's rain had not destroyed it.

CHAPTER IX. THE END. A gentleman has seen a lady in the evening. It is a little to read her flowers next day. Indeed, upon this matter while eating my dinner, and I came into my mind that there might be a lady's garden somewhere in that region. Indeed, I seemed to remember the shining road of a greenhouse, leading the road from the city.

After breakfast I sought information of Jimmy, who was sitting in a corner of the principal Winterson's park and staring at nothing with the air of one who understood it perfectly. Who knew what it was nothing and could create it out of nothing, whatever the universe should run short.

At a place where you can buy flowers," said Jimmy. "It is in." He had caught the word from him. Winterson and had modified it in accord with his own nature. As to (To be continued)
